

SECURITY

priority one

An uncompromising security system . . . is every facility manager's first priority. Since 1954 thousands of loss prevention and risk managers at industrial plants, airports, border crossings, government and military installations as well as institutional facilities have selected Par-Kut for their factory assembled security buildings. They know that Par-Kut security buildings outlast any other brand or type - and look great, too. Par-Kut was first in the industry to offer bullet resistant construction, and first to offer custom designs to complement existing architecture and accommodate traffic flow. Whether a gatehouse, inspection booth or surveillance tower, Par-Kut is the first and only choice for quality, durable, portable steel buildings for those in the security industry who are as serious about security as Par-Kut!
